

SOLDER POINT

Automatic soldering station

SOLDER POINT is a programmable soldering station able to repeat the soldering activity of components very precisely. Its multiple settings mean that you can create, quickly through its display, a working sequence according to the welds you need to do. With the same ease, it is possible to interchange welding tips and wire guides suitable for the diameter of the wire being used.

